

Where is the journey going?

Search movements in different Intensity and in different directions have replaced the “triumphalism of the Christian West” in large parts of Europe.

The pictures were exchanged.

The “church as a stronghold in the stream of change” became “the afternoon of Christianity”. Or should we better speak of an „autumn of Christianity in Europe“? This impression is made even worse by the fact that the focus is shifting away from Europe.

The Christian of the future will be someone who has experienced something or he will not be, as Karl Rahner predicted half a century ago. Religio itself is currently breaking away from Christianity and finding itself outside of it. Eberhard Tiefensee explored Homo areligiosus.

Which route do we want to take?

How influential can and do we want to be?

How can and do we want to design?

Information and pre-registrations

Travel dates:

Prague:	October 25 - October 27, 2024 (with Prof. Dr. Tomáš Halík)
Oxford:	March 29 - March 31, 2025 (with Prof. Alister McGrath)
Tübingen:	October 10 - October 12, 2025 (with Prof. Dr. Johanna Rahner)

Travel prices in a double room (as of December 2023):

Prague:	€600 (participant fee, travel, accommodation and meals) €150 Single room supplement
Oxford:	€540 (participation fee, accommodation and meals) probably Single room supplement plus approx. €490 travel costs (flight and transfer)
Tübingen:	€50 (participant fee) approx. €200 accommodation

Prices subject to change!

Please note:

In order to be able to plan, advance registration is urgently required! The trip only takes place if 30 people participate.

Pre-registration:

Prague:	until March 31, 2024
Oxford:	until March 31, 2024
Tübingen:	until December 31, 2024

Registration at: <https://raete.drs.de/aktuelles/ansicht/article/detail/News/wo-geht-die-reise-hin.html>

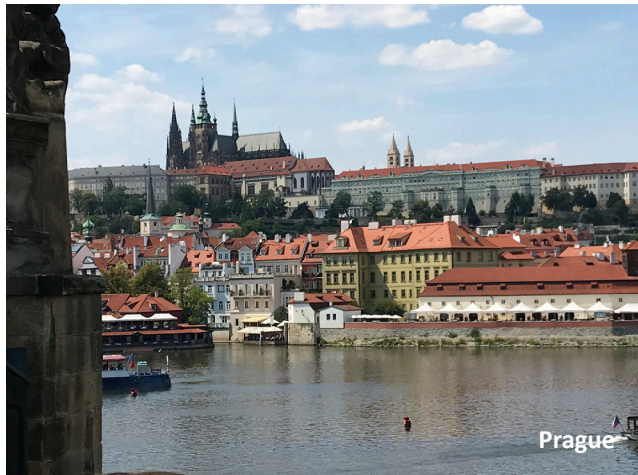

Tour operator:

Prague:	Krizek Travel, Prague
Oxford:	Tour with Schanz, Herrenberg

Where is the journey going?

The future of Christians in Europe

Prague

Harris Manchester College in Oxford

Tübingen

Where is the journey going?

As awake contemporaries, we can in this situation

- Explore and mark the signs of the times;
- Be companions to people who are rediscovering existential and spiritual dimensions of faith;
- Address the pressing questions socially and inter-religiously;
- Accept a therapeutic calling for the tangible wounds of creation and bring our experience of remembrance, healing and reconciliation into the future.

Prague

Our neighboring region Bohemia has a tradition of reforms, awakenings and upheavals that goes back to the later Middle Ages and is often described as the most atheistic region in Europe.

Oxford

Central developments in Bohemia were inspired by ideas from England, which in turn traditionally played a pioneering role in social developments in Europe.

Tübingen

We want to look and feel what is going on there and, on a third seminar weekend in Tübingen, bring the results of our explorations to the current practice in Germany - Baden-Württemberg - in the Diocese of Rottenburg-Stuttgart in order to set up signposts for the upcoming journey.

For the Catholic Theological Faculty in Tübingen, “contemporariness” is a constant goal.

Tyn Church and Hus Monument, Old Town Square in Prague

Room Tomas Halik, Harris Manchester College in Oxford

Tübingen, Theologikum